Acoustic Flutes

ACCO panels are a specialized type of fluted veneers combined with acoustic panel which has sound absorption properties. These panels are designed to enhance both the aesthetic appeal of a space and acoustic performance.

Beneath the veneered flutes layer, the panel consists of a sound-absorbing core material. This core is typically made from foam.

ACCO can be found in applications such as residential spaces, hotels, restaurants, auditoriums, concert halls and offices.

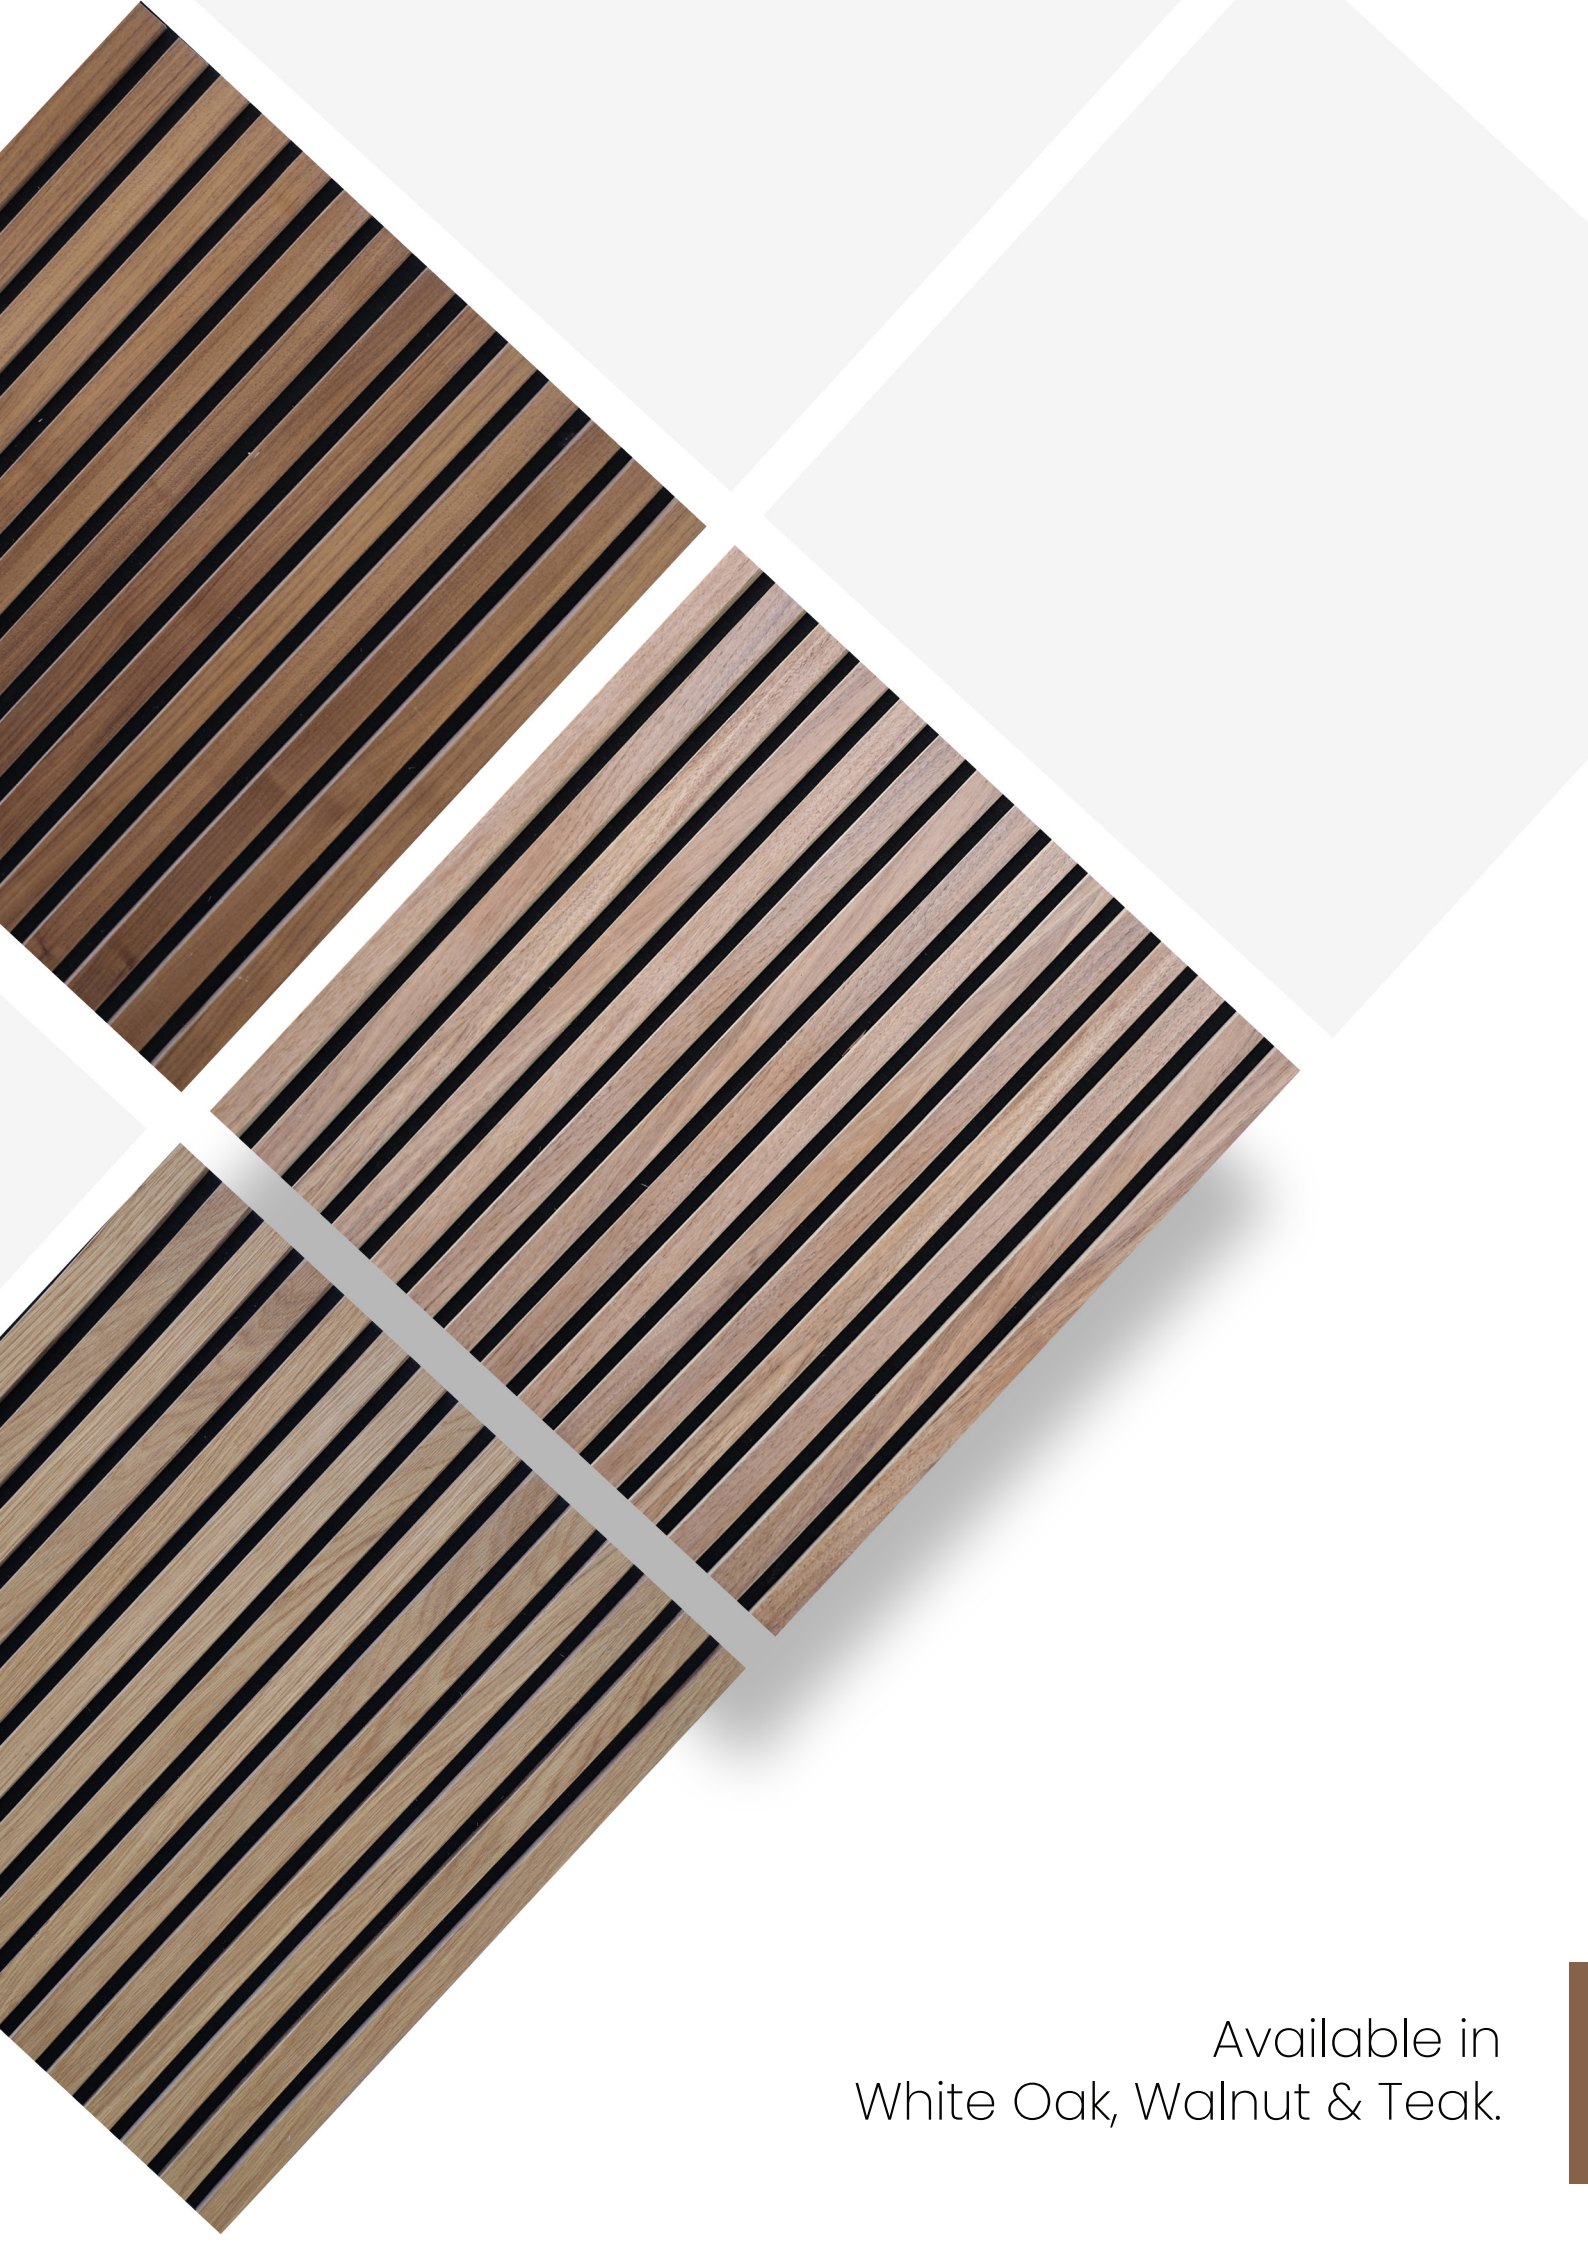

Overall, ACCO panels provide effective sound absorption while adding a sophisticated, natural aesthetic to the space, making them a desired choice for various architectural and interior design projects.
